Glen Cove COVID-19 Pandemic Project

Since the Library closed in mid-March due to the pandemic, the History Room staff has looked for innovative ways to engage the Glen Cove community to learn about and contribute to their city’s history. The COVID-19 Pandemic Project was started to help residents create primary source materials that can serve as valuable resources for future generations. The History Room’s webpage and social media introduces a variety of ideas and prompts to encourage the telling of first-person stories to create a community archive that is reflective of people of Glen Cove and is inclusive of various perspectives. Please contact us at longislandhistory@glencoverlibrary.org if you would like to submit your story.

The following is an excerpt from a reflection submitted by Roslyn Weiss:

I was born in the Glen Cove Hospital in 1961. I’ve lived in surrounding areas until I moved to Glen Cove 25 years ago. I have been a visiting home care nurse for over 35 years. Community health is my passion. I am also an instructor to teach persons who are interested in home health care so that once they complete the course they become home health aides to care for people in their homes.

As of early March, I was receiving alerts from New York State Department of Health that the pandemic was escalating and that guidelines were going to change office and clinical practices. Working from home, I began a routine to be at my desk at 8am and leave it only for making a meal or getting another resource from the pile of docs on the floor. It took several trials to get it smooth. I wanted to give my employer my full eight hour day.

First order of business was to explain to caregivers how they were to protect themselves at work (handwashing, mask wearing, taking their temperatures daily). However, there was much resistance by them to go to work. I gave repetitive explanations to each person to convince them to go to work to care for that waiting elderly person. Many aides still refused to go. Some patients were alone without having their personal care needs met or having meals prepared. These numbers started growing. But the clinical team and I contacted their family/friends who could assist these clients to make sure the family was now home and could care for their loved ones. This took much coordination. Some patients would refuse to have the aide come into their home for fear of being exposed to the virus, so again, we would attempt to re-educate and assure them that each aide would wear appropriate PPE and wash their hands frequently. Many aides did not have a job to go to which was a hardship for them financially; this in turn impacted the business. As I continued to work from home, I had to learn more computer skills including Zoom conferencing on both my Mac and iPhone. Working electronically is probably “the new normal”.

I loved hearing the church bells of St. Rocco’s and St. Patrick’s mark the daytime hours. I loved hearing kids play on the sidewalk or see folks walk their dog in a quiet, relaxed manner. Prior to COVID-19, I was never home so I saw this as a gift. As a matter of fact I loved being home, even while working. I could really see the slow transition of spring turn into summer. I enjoyed walking down to St. Rocco’s bakery. Their staff was committed to helping the community by having milk and eggs for those older adults who weren’t going to the grocery store. They began having a fabulous menu of delicious pastas, chicken and pork chops. I bought several meals to deliver to folks in my church’s congregation to encourage them as well as provide a delicious meal.

I am active in my faith and now I go to church or bible study via Zoom. There are still glitches connecting with the correct tools but it really is amazing how we still can feel like family despite being on screen. I am grateful for those hard workers at grocery stores, pharmacies, and even restaurants who kept things going. I have been disappointed with those who litter their PPE all over. But mostly I am proud of folks coping with this pandemic. I miss many things and social interaction, but if it will protect myself and others, then I’m for a slow reopening.

Thank You to Our 2020 Summer Reading Program Participants

Borrow a Wi-Fi Hotspot
Don’t have internet service at home? Not enough minutes on your data plan? Borrow a Wi-Fi Hotspot and have 4G internet anytime, anywhere, for FREE! A Hotspot is a small device you can use to connect a wireless enabled device, such as a laptop, smartphone or tablet to the internet. Hotspots are portable, so you can connect your device to the internet almost anywhere you are: at home, in the car or in the park. The Hotspot device works in any area covered by the T-Mobile 4G-LTE network.

Hotspots are available to adult Glen Cove Library cardholders only and may be borrowed for 14 days with no renewals.

COVID-19 Pandemic Project
The Glen Cove Public Library is seeking personal stories of what it has been like to live and work through this extraordinary time for its COVID-19 Pandemic Project. The goal of this project is to preserve Glen Cove community’s experience of the pandemic for future generations. Submissions will be archived in the Robert R. Coles History Room.

Some ideas of what we are looking for include written anecdotes or observations, photos, digital content and anything related to the coronavirus pandemic and your experience that you think would be interesting to someone ten, twenty, or one hundred years from now.
